

Review by Chloé van Limburg of course block 1 of the in-service training course

It was a deep joy, more than I thought, to start the eurythmy therapy training in September. For the first time I had the feeling that a lot of time is allowed in a eurythmy training:

Time to get to know each other, with conversations and long breaks. Time to discuss and explain the framework of the training. Time to discover the surroundings of the training, for example observing the plants with Kaspar Jaggi and the Goetheanum with Kaspar Zett. Time to develop a picture of the human organism with the doctors. But what was even more important for me: time, finally, for eurythmy to work in everyone!

I had already heard it and could well imagine it: The human being enters a new space with eurythmy therapy, a step deeper into the diversity of this healing art. I have now experienced it and am simply happy to be able to walk this path with such great people as fellow students and teachers!

I am grateful to every person who supports this training in any way: it is wonderful and very important what you make possible for us.

Merci.
